

At Last I Fade

I had a dream last night I never achieved anything and when I awoke, I found it was true
it was true

My life is over now it ended years ago as I stumbled through another day I only dreamed that I yet lived
back when I
still had reason to believe

This life is illusion
and I have no means to steer it now these reflections that I see are remnants of life, long since passed

If I died tomorrow
only the textures remain behind I haven't spliced it down to simply the memories I'd like for those I left to find,
to unwind,
to rewind

Me and America
the best of both of us
has long since passed and all that remains is to rewrite history
and fade away
at last