

Cold Destiny Unfolds Carry on the Flame

I'm still looking for life's truth as it all comes unglued and as this cold destiny unfolds we sadly dwell on days of gold before the dream of shadows we believed so real was scorched away by light of day and the cost of life grew higher than anyone could hope to pay and yet we hope and carry on with the game

it is planted deep within our hearts and souls (carry forth the flame)

smashed upon the rocks all these treasures of our lives the lighthouse didn't guide us or shelter us from prying eyes the rains came and drowned all gliding and left us grounded way down here in these final days of island dreaming the future gift remains unclear

and yet we hope and carry on
with the game
it is planted deep
within our hearts and souls (carry forth the flame)