

Fearless

I was fearless
back before I knew what fear was, fearless now, the more I know the more I grow the more I fear what at one time was only sport, a game more attachments, less encampments the more I fear

the less youthful, the more truthful
the more I fear

for my love for what is precious is the weakness I've attained and I'm no longer careless and I'm no longer tearless and I'm no longer painless I'm no longer fearless

the more I feel, the more I reel the faster I spin inward from the world the more I gain, the more I guard

the more I fear

for other's lives effect my life far and near and my love for what is precious is Achilles heal to me so, I'm no longer reckless I'm no longer tearless

I'm no longer aimless

back before I knew what fear was
