

From Without

living outside of myself trying to find a meaning from without I'm living outside of myself looking for a way to back in more like a whisper than a shout I fall down and stumble about trying to find an entrance from without living outside of the norm trying to find a meaning from without I'm living in a personal storm looking for a way to begin more like a drenching than a drought pounded down at the end of a bout squinting at the entrance from without

living outside of myself
trying to find a meaning from without
I'm living outside of myself looking for a way back in more like a grimace than a pout I'm lost in a fog of human doubt trying to find an entrance from without
trying to find an entrance from without