

Living Without

in the evening when the snow is falling the sun is fading, you hear me calling but answer me, you could not take the time

I reach for you and call in vain you turn to me, but don't know my name I'm standing here and you don't hear me crying

'cause the time we spent together is through and the words we shared together weren't true and the same old tears don't mean so much to you cause you're gone and you're living without me the bridge is crossed, I go on trying my life is new, but I'm still crying you'll never know the me I lost to you and the sun will shine, it will not darken life goes on, there's no room for the past and there's nothing left for me to say

'cause the time we spent together is through
and the words we shared together weren't true
and the same old tears don't mean so much to you

and the singer sings a song of joy about a silly girl and happy boy and I remember times when love was all around and the summer sun is warming slowly the path we walked I now walk solely our time is past and now I'm all alone

'cause the time we spent together is through
and the words we shared together weren't true
and the same old tears don't mean so much to you
