

Waves

dark clouds are booming as they form telling tales of the coming storm spinning winds yell the truth as they whirl you shoulder the weight of the world

let the waves wash over me the salt and sand, the sun and sea floating free of the gravity the salty spray, the sun and me as bleak as it appears it's not the end, it's just the start you shouldn't breathe that poison and take it to your heart plant the seeds of hope and let 'em grow then breathe in the will that you sew

the salt and sand, the sun and sea
cleanse my soul of this gravity

drink in the sunset and all the colors on the bay then let the sunrise light your way

the salt and sand, the sun and sea
the salty spray, the sun and me
the salt and sand, the sun and sea floating free from the gravity
the salty spray, the sun and me
